INTRODUCTION

Astrology is the study and prediction of the future prospects of the individual by analysing the light rays / cosmic rays of the planets. All of the oldest civilizations are founded on river valleys, such as Nile, Euphrates and Tigris, Ganges, Indus and Volga. These include the Sumerian, Mesopotamian, and Babylonian cultures that inhabited the area between the two rivers, the euphrates and the Tigris (present-day Iraq). From the 18th century BC to the 16th century BC, space exploration was conducted and the first astrological book, the Enuma Anuenu was written. The Babylonians were the ones who divided the seven planets and the solar and lunar eclipses into 12 zodiac signs at a rate of 30 degrees to the zodiac. The Chaldeans who lived in Babylonia in 2600 BC foresaw the future of the individual by associating planetary and astronomical events with the events of human life. They said that the days of the week and every hour would be dominated by a planet, creating today's (HoraSatra system). They developed a system of predictions that include stars and planets in the twelve zodiac signs. Historians believe that the oldest notes of horoscope was written on April 29, 410 BC. It was the Egyptians who introduced the calendar to the world. The Greeks then incorporated astronomical mathematics into a system of calculating the forecasts. Analysing the position of stars and planets in the zodiac sign of the individual's time of birth to predict the prospects of the individual and writing the horoscope.

The 'Pybrastan' horoscope written by the Greeks is kept in the British Museum. The art of astrology was further developed and fine tuned in Greece, Egypt, India, Arabia and China. Astrological references are found in the ancient Indian Hindu scriptures such as Atharvana Veda and Yajur Veda.

Astrology is also a science

Elizabeth Martin, a German astrologer, predicted in 1923 that a man named Hitler would be born in their own country and that he would harm himself, his country and people of other countries by his atrocities. Adopted as a foster son by his mother, Annie Besant, the philosopher J.W. Krishnamurthy was born on 11.05.1895. His family astrologer studied his horoscope and said that "the person of this horoscope will become popular across the globe for his philosophical insights".

When Kanchi Periyaval was born, the astrologer who predicted his horoscope said he wanted to see the baby and then touched the feet of the baby. He said "I am very blessed to have touched the baby's feet and worshipit, in the future tens of thousands of people would fall at the feet of this person and worship him". So astrology is actually a science not just a superstitious belief.

Mars

In astrology Mars is the third planet from the Sun, next to Mercury and Venus. For him, Aries and Scorpio are the ruling house, Capricorn is the exalted house and cancer is the neecha house.
